FOREWORD

When I began my genealogy research in 1960, the family group sheets for William Mullins, John Alden, Myles Standish and his sons were in the Genealogical Library. I accepted them as they were. Beginning with Abraham Sampson, who came to America in 1629, I have done my own research. I accepted the family group records as they were in the Library only if they agreed with my research.

I am happy and I appreciate the opportunity and privilege to be among the many who have been interested in the Sampson genealogy, and I appreciate the great amount of work that has been done.

I sincerely hope and pray my book will be of value in help and inspiration to others in gathering their genealogy.

To my dear family, to my neighbors who have helped me, to those who have encouraged me to prepare this book, I give my sincere thanks and I express my appreciation to them.

May "ABRAHAM SAMPSON IN AMERICA" be of as much worth to the Sampson family as has been my pleasure in preparing it, and the joy of having it in our homes.

THE LANDING OF THE PILGRIMS

by Felecia B. Hemans

The breaking waves dashed high
On the stern and rock-bound coast,
And the woods against a stormy sky
Their giant branches tossed.

And the heavy night hung dark
The hills and water's o'er,
When a band of exiles moored their bark
On the wild New England shore.

Not as the conqueror comes
They the true-hearted came.
Not with the stirring roll of drums
And the trumpet that sings of fame.

Not as the flying come
In silence and in fear,
They shook the depths of the desert gloom
With their hymns of lofty cheer.

Amidst the storm they sang,
And the stars heard, and the sea
And the sounding isles of the dim woods
Rang to the anthems of the free.

The ocean eagle soared
From his nest by the white sea foam,
And the rocking pines of the forest roared
This was their welcome home.

There were men with hoary hair
Amidst that Pilgrim band.
Why had they come to wither there
Away from their childhood land?

There was woman's fearless eye
Lit by her deep loves truth,
There was manhoods brow, serenly high
And the fiery heart of youth.

What sought they thus afar?
Bright jewels of the mine?
The wealth of seas? The spoils of war?
They sought a faith's pure shrine.

Aye! Call it hallowed ground
The soil where first they trod.
They left unstained what here they found --
Freedom to worship God.

INTRODUCTION

At the invitation of my husband, Oliver Hutchinson, before his death in 1959, I began to help him with the research in the genealogy of his grandmother, Constantia Elizabeth Clementina Langdon. Her parents were (Capt) Nathaniel Langdon & Penelope Sampson. She was born at Bowdoinham, Sagadahoc, Maine.

It has been my privilege and great pleasure to continue this and I would like to share the results with the members of her family.

My son, Rowan Scott Hutchinson, is the family representative in this work and his relationship to the head of each family is given.

The Sampsons came to America with the Pilgrims. Henry Sampson came on the Mayflower in 1620 with (Capt.) Myles Standish and John Alden. George Morton, who was the legal representative of the Plymoth Colony in England, came on the ship "Ann" in 1622. All these Pilgrim Fathers were the great-grandfathers of the Sampsons.

OUR PILGRIM FATHERS BRAVE

Our Pilgrim Fathers brave and bold
Put all their trust in God,
To worship Him in freedom's peace
They sought a virgin sod.

They braved the tide, the winter's cold,
The loss of loved ones dear,
The rugged life, the threat of death
From natives living near.

Behind this great desire in each
Was a spirit given from God --
To uphold the right in this choice land.
To them an iron rod.

From oppressor's tyranny and hold
They gave their lives and might.
Their wise men made good laws
To guide them in the right.

A mighty nation they became
A light to all the world.
The Church was now again restored --
A banner was unfurled.

Three hundred years have passed, and more.
We are a favored people,
Behind us are the Pilgrims dear,
Before the Temple's steeple.

Oh' let us honor these brave men,
Our early American generation,
That they too, may be partakers of
Eternal life and exaltation.

JOHN ALDEN

John Alden, the Pilgrim, was born about 1599, probably in England, though his histroy prior to his joining the Mayflower Company at Southhampton in August 1620, is unknown. The year of his birth is inferred from a disposition made at Plymouth July 6, 1682, in which he stated he was then 83 years. He was one of the Signers of the "Compact" on board the Mayflower at Cape Cod on November 21, 1620, and landed with the other passengers at Plymouth in December. He being the first to stand on Plymouth Rock. He was the one who jumped from the boat to fasten the boat to the Rock.

Governor Bradford in his "History of the Plymouth Plantation" wrote "John Alden hired for a cooper at Southhampton where the ship vitualed, and being a hopeful young man, was much preferred, but left to his own liking to go or to stay when he came here; but he stayed and married here."

It may be that John Alden joined the Pilgrims for love of adventure, but Priscella Mullins may have been the chief inducement to remain. But whatever the motive at first, he early identified with them, and through a long life was a dedicated member of the Colony. For forty-three years he was the Governor's Assistant, being at times the First Assistant and Deputy Governor. For thirteen years he was Treasurer of the Colony; for eight years he was Deputy to the General Court, and sometimes filling several offices at once. He was a member of the Council of War of the Colony for eight years.

Two pictures have been painted of the Return of the Mayflower to England in 1622. One picture shows a group of Pilgrims on the shore watching the ship set sail. The other picture shows John Alden and Priscilla standing on the beach together looking at the Mayflower on the distant horizon. The story says there were tears in John's eyes. Priscilla said "Are you sorry, John?" She then turned and walked up Burial Hill where her father, mother, and younger brother Joseph lay buried. John followed her. Priscilla's father, William Mullins, died March 3, 1621, her mother, Alice Atwood Mullins, and her brother died during the sickness the first winter that was fatal to half the colony. Priscilla too was alone.

John and Priscilla were married early in 1623. Tradition represents her to have been beautiful in her youth, and John too was a comely youth. He was tall and well built, the tallest man in the colony. They had eleven children and have a numerous posterity to honor them.

Part of the John Alden land in Plymouth is still owned by the Aldens, and the site of the old well is still pointed out near the "Alden House", built during his lifetime, and has always been owned and occupied by one of his descendants. It is now owned by "The Alden kindred of America". Every year a meeting of the Family is held there and all descendants are invited to come and become active members.

John died in Duxbury in September 20, 1687 and was buried near Priscilla and her parents on Burial Hill in Plymouth, the exact spot is not now known. John's Bible and several documents with his signature are preserved in Plymouth Hall.

MYLES STANDISH, CAPTAIN OF THE PILGRIM COLONY

Ancient Landmarks of Plymouth
by William T. Davis

Captain of the Colony, Myles Standish was born about 1584 in Lankshire, England. He came to America in the Mayflower in 1620. His wife, Rose, died there the first winter. His second wife, Barbara, was believed to have been related to his first wife.

He organized the colony for it's protection. He commanded expeditions against the Indians, defeating them in 1623. He was the Colony's Agent in England in 1625/6. On Captain's Hill in Duxbury where he lived, stands a monument to his memory, a bronze statue of him.

He had been a soldier of fortune before coming to America. His sword of Damascus steel, won in his exploits, is now in Plymouth Hall, Plymouth. His son, Alexander Standish, who married Sarah Alden, daughter of John Alden & Priscilla Mullins, was admitted a freeman in 1648.

From American Publications #28

For the benefit of the Pilgrim Colony in Leyden, Holland, there came among them sword in hand, one Myles Standish, of whom the first known is that while a youth he received from Queen Elizabeth a commission in the English Army in Holland, then aiding the Dutch against Spain.

Myles, an old Roman name for soldier, was short in stature, but he made his record according to his inches not feet. His energetic nature and military training fitted him for the endurance and indomitable self-control demanded by the many duties thrust upon him. Stalwart as he was, a kind Providence had gifted him with a contrasting sweetness, a deep sense of justice that made him a ruler among men, all the more powerfull that his reticent nature had a holy of 'holies' into which few were admitted. A man of a distinguished house, stung by wrongs, he recognized that he must so conduct himself that the proof of his claim would show without saying.

The lowly surroundings of the Pilgrims were not to his taste, still through all times he bore himself with dignity which placed him where he belonged.

His wife Rose, who came with him on the Mayflower, died that first hard winter. The hands which naturally sought the sword hilt, when the loved ones were laid low, served them deftly, with the gentleness of a woman.

"THROWN UPON HIS CARE", William Bradford learned to know this man who felt no weariness in welldoing. Performing the most meniel tasks with gladness, considering nothing too much to serve their loved Governor Bradford. Stern of purpose, a disciplinarian always, a leader as trouble confronted them, a man bristling with anger when aroused he yet has given to history the most romantic side of the colonists.

High of station, free from care, holding a military position, his joining the little band was a mystery, but he was a zealous, devoted citizen, one with them in thought and deed, save the very puspose of there exile. From his personal history he became an ernest though unrecorded member of the Pilgrim faith.

With the landing on Plymouth Rock the real life of Myles Standish, the first officer to hold a military commission in the United States began, and ended with his death.

Born in 1584, Myles Standish probably held the rank of captain when he left Leyden and carried well his sword of which Oliver Wendell Holmes writes in his poem. This sword had an Arabic inscription which interpreted says, With Peace God ruled His creatures, and with the judgment of His arm He troubled the mighty of the wicked. Some Arabs visiting in America said it is one of the oldest arms in existence and very valuable.

If there was jealousy between Myles Standish and John Alden, he had it well in hand, for he welcomed into his home, Sarah Alden, John's eldest daughter, as the wife of his eldest son, Alexander, the one who to him represented the heir apparent to those lost estates at Duxbury Hall.

After the death of his wife, Rose, Myles sent to England for Barbara, believed to be Roses' sister. She became his second wife, the mother of his six children.

In 1632 the Pilgrims, according to the record, gave the names of those who promise to remove their families to live in the town in the winter time 'That they may the better repair to the worship of God", moved into Duxbury, the estate of Myles Standish for the winter months. When the church was built, Alexander the heir became the deacon.

Capt. Standish, in his intercourse with the Indians, did not abuse his power by insisting on law and order. They appreciated the position he took, that he was their just friend time of reverses, and they rendered him affection and even homage in many instances.

The cabinet of the Plymouth Society is rich in treasures of the Standish Family. The sword, one of the pewter dishes, and a piece of embroidery in a frame, executed by Lorah Standish. Lorah died before her father, also Charles & John died young.

Capt. Myles Standish died 31 Oct. 1656, age 72 years, a man honored in his generation. He was buried in Duxbury and stone markers have been placed on his grave. These stones came from his farm in Duxbury. Sept. 30, 1895 the D.A.R. erected a cairn of stones to commerate the landing of the Pilgrims at Squantum Head on Sept. 30, 1621, a promontory which juts into Boston Bay.

There should be no sorrow in leaving him to the verdict of public opinion. He has won on his merits. Capt. Myles Standish of Duxbury Hall, England, of Duxbury, Plymouth Colony, made his mark in the history of the country he sought of his own free will. To his descendants he has left a name so grand, broad and true that he has a right to ask that they shall so order their lives so as to perpetuate it intact as it went to them from him.

GEORGE MORTON

George Morton was probably son of Anthony Morton of Bawtry, one of the aristocratic families of England, but departed from the spirit and principles of his family, having fallen into the ranks of the Protestants, Puritans, and Separatists. Of his early life no record has been preserved, and his religious environments and the causes which led him to unite with the Separatists are unknown. His home in Yorkshire was in the village of Scrooby Manor, and possibly he was a member of Brewster's historical church. It is only definitely known that he early joined the Pilgrims in Leyden, Holland, and continued of their company until his death.

When the first of the Colonists departed for America Mr. Morton remained behind, although he must have desired to embark then, and intended to soon join them. His reason for such a course is a matter of conjecture. As he was a merchant, possibly his business interests caused his detention; or probably he remained to promote the success of the colony by encouraging immigration among others. That he served in some official capacity before coming to America is certain. One writer states that George Morton was the agent of those of his sect in London. Another writer asserts that he was the financial agent in London for the Plymouth Company.

The work, however, for which this eminent forefather is most noted and which will forever link his name in American history is the publication issued by him in London in 1622, which has since been known as Mourt's Relation. This Relation may justly be termed the first history of New England, and is composed of letters and journals from the chief colonists in Plymouth, either addressed to or entrusted to George Morton whose authorship in the work is possibly limited to the preface. The "Relation" itself is full of valuable information, and still an authority. Shortly after it was placed before the public. George Morton prepared to immigrate to the new world, and sailed with his wife and five children on the "Ann" the third and last ship to carry what are distinctively known as the forefathers. The "Ann reached Plymouth early in June 1623. New England's Memorial speaks of Mr. Timothy Hatherly and Mr. George Morton as two of the passengers that came on this ship. From Mr. Morton activity in promoting immigration, it may be inferred that the third ships valuable additions to the colony was in a measure due to his efforts. He did not long survive his arrival and his early death was a serious loss to the infant settlement. His character was such as to suggest the thought that had he lived to the age reached by several of his distinguished contemporaries, he would have filled a conspicious place in the life of the Colony.

The "Memorial" thus chronicles his decease. Mr. George Morton was a pious man, gracious, a servant of God, and very faithful in whatever public employment he was intrusted with, and an unfeigned well-wisher, and according to his sphere and conditions a suitable promoter of the common good and growth of the Plantation of New Plymouth. He labored to still the discontent that sometimes would arise amoungst some spirits by occasion of the difficulties of these new beginnings. But it pleased God to put an end to his days soon after his arrival in New England, not surviving a full year after coming ashore. With much comfort and peace he fell asleep in the Lord in the month of June 1624.

He married Juliana Carpenter, as shown by the entry in the Leyden Record, George Morton, merchant, from York, England, accompanied by Thomas Morton, his brother and Roger Wilson, his acquaintance, with Juliana Carpenter, a maid from Bath, accompanied by Abraham Carpenter, her father, and Alice Carpenter, her sister, and Annie Robinson, her acquaintance. The banns were published 6--16 July 23, 1612.

Mrs. Morton married (2) Manasseh Kempton Esq., a member of the first and other Assemblies of the Colony. She died at Plymouth Feb. 18, 1665, age 81, and is mentioned in the town records as a faithful servant of God.
